

-UTILIZING UNCONVENTIONAL GARMENTS & ACCESSORIES, AND GENUINE CONVERSATION TO UNRAVEL CHURCH COMMUNITY & CULTURE

-ENCOURAGE EACH OTHER TO BUILD A MORE EDIFYING & LOVING COMMUNITY, PURSUING FAITH TOGETHER

-TO BE CO-LABORERS OF THIS ON-GOING & UNFINISHED CONVERSATION ABOUT FAITH & COMMUNITY, TO BE AT THE STATE OF UNDONE

undone

by silvia chen

the use of denim

The garments are all made by denim, because similarly to this collective's mission-- denim is a fabric that strikes commonality, it is something that most people own and share. We have our many notions and conditionings of what denim may look like, and by using denim to start a conversation with an unconventional and collaborative wearing experience, I hope to further elicit a conversation about the sides of community perhaps we don't talk about.

ASPECTS OF COMMUNITY

moments of community that were observed to gain insight & sentiment:

- weekly small group
- one-on-one intimate hangouts
- Sunday school teaching
- Sunday services
- college student gatherings
- corporate worship time
- people utilizing their talents (such as playing instruments)
- conversations over food
- celebrations of baptism

undone line-up

part of the body

ctrl c + ctrl v

for granted

wearing the pants

PART OF THE BODY

what does it mean to have unity within a body? how do we foster it as a community?

CTRL C + CTRLV

what does it mean to "come as you are"? do we fall into a need of withholding how to act, behave, or even look a certain way in our community?

FOR GRANTED

how do we develop a heart of thanksgiving? Do we overlook the everyday efforts of people and treat them as a convenience?

WEARING THE PANTS

do we find ourselves over-compensating or feeling like we are responsible for how each of us are doing with God? To what extent does it mean to carry one another's burdens?

bags & shoes

garments in(ter)-action

at the table series

A 4-part "table talk" series that fosters an open space to reflect, share, & discuss about the 4 main experiences/topics over a meal.

** due to COVID-19, only part 1 was filmed

at
the
table

77 5th Ave.,
Apt #5D
New York NY 10003
(ring apt #5D twice!)

any questions/comments:
+1(845)327-4343
chens335@newschool.edu

menu

part of the body -----korean bbq
march 8th (sun), 7:30 pm
what are we talking about?
What does it mean to have unity within a body?
How do we foster it as a community?

ctrl c + ctrl v ----- hot pot
march 11th (wed), 7:00 pm
what are we talking about?
What does it mean to "come as you are"?
Do we fall into a need of withholding how to act, behave, or even look a certain way in our community?

for granted ----- dumpling making march 22nd (sun), 7:30 pm
what are we talking about?
How do we develop a heart of thanksgiving?
What are things and who can we be thankful for in our community?

wearing the pants --kimbap making
march 29th (sun), 7:30 pm
what are we talking about?
Do we find ourselves over-compensating or feeling like we are responsible for how each of us are doing with God?
To what extent does it mean to carry one another's burdens?

COVID-19 & COMMUNITY

weekly fellowship/small groups

practices sustained online

almost every aspect of our practices has become virtual - service, small groups, prayer, fellowship, etc. it's a huge shift in how people seek to engage in community and other ties of relationship. some say it got better, some for the worse. this is an imperative shift in the project as we continue to strive for ways to stay connected and keep the conversation of faith going especially in these trying times

different method and modes of experiencing worship

interviews

since community and yearning of a belief/support has been more important than ever, interviews of people from various stages of life and their outlook on faith, community, heart in relation to COVID-19. how people overcome, process, seek, adapt, and grieve in this time were conducted (subject of faith does not pertain to just Christianity)